In the field of classical studies, the psychoanalytic construction of the unconscious is rarely regarded as a fruitful methodological concept. The Ancient Unconscious seeks to challenge this ambivalent theoretical disposition toward the psychoanalytic concept and reclaim the value of the unconscious as a methodological tool for the study of ancient texts by transforming our understanding of what the unconscious means, the way it operates, and how it relates to textual hermeneutics.

FEATURES

- Explores the relationship between psychoanalysis and antiquity through the lens of the concept of the unconscious
- Offers a new methodological approach to classical texts which draws on novel interpretations of the Freudian unconscious and the Oedipus complex
- Includes innovative readings of both ancient authors, such as Homer, Sophocles, Virgil, and Artemidorus, and modern philosophers including Hegel, Gadamer, Nietzsche, and Freud
- Demonstrates the contribution of psychoanalysis to the foundation of comparative literature, introducing the unconscious as a central methodological tool for the literary comparatist
